

Dear friends of autonomy in agriculture,

With the start of spring comes the start of the industry event season in agriculture. Our route for June goes through two shows in the UK, please see the invitations below.

As the weather is slowly getting better, we know that our customers are gearing up and ready for busy months as they get their fields and AgBots up and running again. At AgXeed, we are also busy preparing to support our existing customers and partners to make sure their AgBots are ready for the season.

We are investing heavily in our products and solutions, and also committed to finding new employees to strengthen the AgXeed Team. We believe that the right talent can help us achieve great things. Please help us find the right people for our open vacancies and share them in your network!

We hope you enjoy reading this newsletter and hope to see you at one of our events!

Customer Experience

We had a great conversation with our very first customer after 1000 hours working with their new team member; "Freddy the AgBot". Discover their ability to go on holiday in the busy season and hear about their experiences using the AgBot together with the AgXeed Portal. Stay tuned!

New Partnership

We are excited to announce that we formed another new partnership with a distribution company to extend our reach and make our autonomous solutions available to even more farmers worldwide. We are pleased to welcome Rinaldin Group to our esteemed network of partners.
